Our founder's vision of improving lives has always been our guiding principle

Body text

20 years ago, Sam Seth was very unhappy that small towns were so underserved by pharmaceutical companies. It became his burning mission to make sure that all small towns had access to medicines. That was the genesis of Sapphire Pharma. Today the company serves over 121 cities with 150,000 doctors prescribing our products. The trust that we enjoy with millions of consumers has been built with absolute dedication, town by town, one street at a time. It is no small feat that building and preserving this trust is what has lead us to become a $20 million powerhouse.

It takes years of dedicated service that goes beyond the pursuit of profits to build trust. And that is precisely what we still follow as our light house principle. We know that in following the footsteps of our founder, the eminent Sam Seth, we will never veer away from the right path. Our focus is on Research and Development as a key cornerstone for meeting future challenges and crossing new frontiers in the world of medicine.
